Management commentary

December was a relatively quiet month as the European and US markets prepared for the holiday season and year end period as such, market activities were relatively muted. In December, the US Federal Reserve revealed the minutes of their December FOMC meeting, during which they hiked by another 25 bps, moving the target rate to 1.25% to 1.5% from between 1.0% and 1.25%, the bank cited continuing improvements in the labour market and a general recovery to economic activities following the disruption caused by hurricanes. In Europe, shortly after the Fed announcement, the European Central Bank (ECB) revealed their own monetary policy decision, which as widely expected, was to leave the main refinancing rates unchanged, the ECB also confirmed that from January 2018, the size of the bond purchases would be reduced to €30bn per month, from the current level of €60bn per month. In non-central bank news, on the 22nd of December, president Trump signed the "Tax Cuts and Jobs Act" into law. The new tax bill cuts corporate taxes and provides individuals with temporary tax relief, the new bill also removes the individual contribution that was a requirement under the Affordable Care Act – which could see health insurance premiums rise. In south Africa, President Zuma survived a motion to impeach him for potential misuse of public funds after the high court ruled that parliament had failed to hold the president accountable. Most currencies rose against the dollar in December despite the tax cuts as markets corrected.

Fund returns were marginally negative and underperformed the benchmark. A number of developed markets government bond yields rose, so that our underweight duration exposure helped returns, overweight exposure to credit also helped. Within currencies, inter-bloc currency allocations were positive, with overweight allocations to the EUR vs other major currencies helping, although the largest detractor came from overweight allocations to select emerging markets currencies.
